Software

360plusfeedback.com

Feedback is essential to continuous improvement of any kind. Few companies use feedback consistently because sending out surveys and compiling data can be time consuming and expensive.

This web-based feedback system is easy to use and affordable! Designed with the Organizational Development Professional in mind, the software allows for total customization of competences, skills, surveys, and categories.

The system allows you to set your own target or benchmark numbers and allows for your own linked recommendations for improvement actions.

The system comes standard with a list of skills, gap analysis and development reports. Other reports can be provided upon request.

Here's how it works:

- Quantum Services or your company's administrator sets up your company specifications i.e. survey questions, rating scales, categories and improvement recommendations. The administrator then selects participants and, in a few easy steps, sends emails to all participants who will be receiving feedback.
- Participants list who they would like to receive feedback from, sending emails to them through the system. (Respondents without email require an additional step.)
- Respondents click on an email link, complete the survey with a few clicks of the mouse and the data is uploaded to the system.
- Your administrator prints the needed reports and provides the information to the participants.

All data collected remains anonymous. Once your system is in place, surveys can be sent out consistently and systematically measuring improvement!

HRInterview.com

Software that helps you find and evaluate the best talent for your organization. Create your own behavioral based Interview Guides using HRInterview.com. Take the headache out of what questions to ask and what information you really need.

It's easy!

You will be using it within a matter of minutes.

Step 1. Pick the skills required for the job.

Step 2. Select the questions you want to ask.

Step 3. Print the guide and conduct the interview.

Step 4. Enter the candidate's scores.

The program creates analysis reports to make sure you hire the best candidate.

Computer-Based Training

Quantum Services can turn your recurrent training programs into a custom-made, computer-based training program that can be delivered on an individual, as-needed basis. Things like new hire orientation, company processes, work instructions and safety basics can be delivered to individuals as they need it, when they need it and at their own pace. Our training uses interactive choices and activities, quizzes, video examples and sound clips to keep things interesting. Plus, we can build in tracking systems so you know who's learning what, how long it took them, how many attempts they made and what their pre and post scores were.

Training Tracker Software

Quantum Services provides software that will allow you to efficiently and effectively track who, what, when, where, and how much in regards to your training. Customized software development is available. Stand alone, network, or source code versions are available.
